Why Didn't They Tell Me?

FertilityCare System Class at the Chancery

It is never too late to learn about the amazing new science of FertilityCare and NaProTechnology. Think it's only about "natural birth control?" Think again. Help the young girl understand and respect her maturing body, what's normal and what is not, and where to go for real help. (And no, it's never the birth control pill to cover up symptoms.) All women, young or old, single or married deserve to know. Refer the engaged and married couples for real help in living Church teaching and to manage medical related problems including infertility. This universal system is medically and morally superior to all forms of contraception and Artificial Reproductive Technologies.

Now is your chance and it's free! Don't be the one to say "Why Didn't They Tell Me?"

Teaching is done age appropriately from adolescence to menopause. Complimentary Introductory Sessions of 1 hour are given monthly at the Diocese of Jefferson City Chancery in honor of the 50th Anniversary of the encyclical Humanae Vitae. Dates are July 13, Aug 17, Sep 21, Oct 26, Nov 16 at 10:00 AM. Private intros available on request.

From the Pastor:

As an ongoing catechesis on Sundays Word of God, I will be sharing a brief explanation of each reading given by Fr. Anthony Kadavil. He is a retired Priest of Archdiocese Mobile in Alabama and is recognized for his Scripture commentaries on the readings for Sundays and weekdays.

First reading: Isaiah 66:10-14: The prophet Isaiah is encouraging the Jews, who are returning to Israel from Babylonian exile, to see their beloved city of God, Jerusalem, alive under its ruins. In poetic and symbolic language, he describes the prosperity and peace which the New Jerusalem will give them. Both the Holy City of Jerusalem and God are presented under the image of a mother. The prophet offers a maternal image of God. The returned exiles will have the experience of a child being fondled by its loving mother. They will be like suckling infants enjoying the comfort and nurture of a mother because the city will give them the experience of Yahweh's love and care, the Temple of Jerusalem will represent and house God's presence in their midst, and "the Lord's power shall be known to his servants." The prophet calls on his fellow-Jews to rejoice and be glad because Jerusalem will be greater, more peaceful and more prosperous than she ever was before. In today's Gospel, Luke describes the fulfillment of the prophetic promise made by Isaiah in Jesus' commissioning of 72 disciples to preach the Gospel in towns and villages in preparation for his visit.

The Second Reading: Galatians 6:14-18: Today we hear the concluding words of Paul's letter to the Galatians. Shortly after Paul left Galatia, some ultra-conservative Judeo-Christians ("Judaizers") arrived there from Jerusalem. They taught that, since the historical Jesus was Jewish, circumcised and observant of the Torah, his disciples had to be circumcised as Jews and had to observe the Torah. Responding, Paul wrote a letter to those in Galatia who were disturbed and confused by these new teachings. Paul was angry with the Galatians for their stupidly in accepting the false arguments of the Judaizers. In the letter, Paul argues forcefully that God requires no such thing, and that keeping such a false obligation is nothing to boast about. Astonishingly, Paul boasts about what would otherwise be shameful, the execution of Jesus on the cross. "Crucified to the world" is another strong image, meaning that Paul's relationship with the world is no longer governed by the old Mosaic Law or anything else from the past, but by his relationship with Christ crucified.

Gospel exegesis: Luke 10:1-12, 17-20. While all the synoptic Gospels mention a mission of the Twelve, only Luke adds a second mission of the 72. Moses selected the seventy-two elders to guide and govern his people. Here, Luke shows us Jesus doing something similar, sending out in pairs, seventy-two other disciples to towns and villages to announce his visit. In this way, Jesus connects his Messianic mission with the whole of Israel's history in which 72 had become a symbolic number. In the Book of Genesis, seventy descendants of Jacob moved with him from Israel to Egypt to begin a new life. In the Book of Exodus, seventy elders go up the Mountain of God along with Moses to learn about the new Covenant with YHWH. The Jews also believed that there were seventy-two nations in the whole world, and they had seventy-two members in the Sanhedrin, the supreme council of the Jews. Each of us, by the very fact that we have heard the Lord's call, is likewise sent on a mission. Hence, announcing the Good News of the kingdom is not something optional for a Christian. The disciples received instructions as to how they were to carry out their mission. For example, they were to "carry no money bag, no sack, no sandals." There is also an ominous warning that they are sent as "lambs among wolves." Their guidelines were simple: go where they were received (verses 5-6); remain in one place (verse 7) and eat what was set before them (verse 8). This would help them avoid the appearance of being mercenary. The basic idea behind Jesus' instruction is that his disciples were sent as walking witnesses, and, hence, they were not to depend on anything or anybody except on the Holy Spirit of God and on Divine providence.

Approval and Commissioning of Eucharistic Ministers: Those who are serving as Eucharistic Ministers at Weekend and weekday Masses and who are reaching Holy Communion to the sick and homebound are known as Extraordinary Ministers of Eucharist or Holy Communion. The ordained ministers (Bishops, Priests, and Deacons) are known as Ordinary Ministers of Eucharist. Usually the persons who attained at least 21 years of age and who have faith and love for the Eucharistic Lord are commissioned for this special ministry.

Now, it has to follow a process of getting them functional. First of all, the Pastor makes a selection of candidates and recommends them to the Bishop for his approval. Secondly, upon receiving his approval, they are commissioned by the Pastor at Weekend Masses and then they will be functional. Prior to this, they must be given proper instruction on this special ministry of the Church. This regulation has been overlooked in our Parish and so I am making a beginning. And so, I have asked Roxanne to prepare a list of people who signed up for this ministry in the time and talent sheet to be sent to the Diocese for Bishop's formal approval. Side by side, those who have been doing this ministry for a while, they will be commissioned along with others. This is done once in three years but the recommissioning of the approved ministers is done every year. If anyone still so desires to do such noble ministry, please contact the Pastor first before his or her name is added to the list.

Family visit by the new Principal: Perhaps you will be glad to learn that Jake Akin, the new Principal is planning to visit with families of the kids who come to our school or others who would like to come to our school. It is a wonderful way of building up a rapport with the school families and neighborhood. This will also help him to know the families from where the kids come to school. Further, it will help him to work collectively with parents for a good education. Now, I have come to know that this new way in education is followed by some public schools where the Principals visit with families of their school kids before the new school year.

From Pastor continued: We do it in India in the Diocese where I was Superintendent. Over there, every class teacher in a school has to visit with families before the new school year. Parents do love to have the teachers visit with them. After the visit, the teachers all come with wonderful experience which helps them to understand the kids better and make the teaching more effective and interesting. I consider this new initiative by the new Principal is relevant to the time when the school and school parents are called to work together for the all-around education of their kids and I do fully support it. And so, I request all parents to respond to his call through the school office to schedule a time to have a visit with you. Please have a pleasure of meeting and interacting with the new Principal. I wish I joined with him on his visits.
