From the Pastor:

Since the last couple of Sundays, we started mediating on the discourse of Jesus being the bread of life in the Gospel writing of John found in chapter 6 and will continue the meditation for another three Sundays. In order to get a better understanding of the whole discourse, I suggest that we read the entire chapter. I have also given the writings of a couple of fathers of early Church on their understanding of Eucharist. If you wish to know more about the wonder of Eucharist, please log on to www.youshallbelieve.com

St. Ignatius of Antioch was a pagan by birth and a Syrian. He became the third bishop of Antioch and may be considered an Apostolic Father in the sense that he heard the Apostle John preach. About 110 A.D. he was sentenced to a martyr's death in the arena by the Emperor Trajan, who also put Pope Clement to death.

On the almost 1000 mile journey to Rome from Antioch, Syria, the third largest city of the Empire, Ignatius wrote seven letters, which are his only surviving letters. They are addressed to Christian communities he presided over as bishop. He speaks of the Eucharistic mystery in mystical terms saying, "Therefore arm yourselves with gentleness, renew yourselves in faith, which is the Flesh of the Lord, and in charity, which is the Blood of Jesus Christ".

His most famous passage says, "I am God's grain, and I am being ground by the teeth of wild beasts in order that I may be found [to be] pure bread for Christ. My love has been crucified, and there is in me no fire of material love, but rather living water, speaking in me and saying within me, 'Come to the Father.' I take no pleasure in corruptible food or in the delights of this life. I want the bread of God, which is the flesh of Jesus Christ, who is the seed of David; and for drink, I want his blood which is incorruptible love."

His reference to "bread of God" is an allusion to John 6: 33, where Jesus says, "It is not Moses who has given you bread from heaven [manna], but it is my Father who gives you the Bread from heaven. For, the bread of God is he who comes down from heaven and gives life to the world." The Eucharist was a model for the Christ centered approach of Ignatius since he sees it as an example of the "undying love of Christ as he feeds us with his Flesh and Blood."

St. Irenaeus who heard the preaching of Bishop Polycarp, who was a disciple of the Apostle John, writing a famous tract Against Heresies between 180 and 190 A.D. is the first to provide explicit mention of the change that takes place in the bread and wine when they become the Eucharist. (cont'd next column)

The earthly creation (bread and wine) are raised to a heavenly dignity after they "receive the word of God" [at the epiclesis of the Mass or the invocation to the Holy Spirit] and become the food and drink of Christians. So how then can we doubt that, "Our bodies, receiving the Eucharist, are no longer corruptible but have the hope of resurrection to eternal life." (Source: catholicfaithandreason.org)

Vatican Council II writes on the Mystery of Eucharist "the Eucharistic sacrifice is the source and the summit of the whole of the Church's worship and of the Christian life"

I take a moment to thank the Coordinators of PSR and Youth ministries and teachers for participating actively in the joint program conducted by John DeLaPorte, the Diocesan Youth Coordinator and of Religious Education on August 6th at the Catholic Centre, Eldon. It was a wonderful interaction and sharing of experiences, views and thoughts particularly on PSR program. John did an awesome job by being the facilitator and giving the group a direction to make the program relevant to the time and needs of the present day younger generation involving the parents at all level of their faith formation. On behalf of the Parish, I extend my thanks and appreciation to John and to all who participated in the said program.
