FROM THE PASTOR:

Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

The readings today show the need for spiritual guidance to help people discern the word of God that they read or hear. Andrew and John's other disciples had followed John as a way of preparing for the one who is to come. For years they had prayed and fasted and waited for the joy of meeting the messiah. Yet when they finally came face to face with the messiah himself, they could not recognize Him. Again, it took the guidance of their spiritual master, John for them to recognize the messiah. These disciples of John had a divine call to become disciples of Jesus. But they could not discover what divine providence had in store for them until a spiritual director pointed it to them. The invitation in our gospel today, is welcoming as well as appealing: "come, and you will see." How are we called by the Lord? The Lord has called us all here today on this second Sunday in ordinary time, year B, in the middle of January and so we have come together to listen to God's word and to receive our Lord in the Eucharist. As we receive a call in today's readings, let us remember that there will always be the need for priests like Eli and prophets like John as an intermediary to point out Christ to us and to help us discern what God is saying to us in our lives as individuals and as a people. Remember, through baptism we have been joined to the Lord, who calls us to be his disciples. How well do we listen to his voice? and how willing are we to do his will?
